Montana Rifle American Legends .300 Win Mag Rifle

The American West was built upon the backs of men and women venturing into the frontier to pursue dreams of fame, fortune and a better life. Through the years this adventurous spirit has become a part of the American tradition embodied by firearms like the Montana Model 1999. Montana Rifle Company created the American Legends Rifle for the avid hunters who rustle through the mountains, seek their quarry in the field and share the common bond of appreciation for a handsome hunting rifle. Perfect for outdoorsmen seeking big game adventures, this bolt action rifle is chambered in the ever-popular .300 Win Mag and provides consistent, reliable performance through an artfully executed design.

Each rifle action is custom bedded into a select American Black Walnut XX Grade stock with a raised cheek piece and black forearm tip and grip cap. The stock is dressed with beautiful deep checkering and holds a wrap around front pattern. It is finished with the popular one-inch Pachmayr Decelerator pad for comfortable shoot-ability, and the minimal weight makes this rifle easy to pack. Each rifle has received a classic matte blued finish for protection against the elements and features laser engraving of the Friends of NRA logo and “Gun of the Year 2016” text in gold Cerakote on the floor plate. This never-before offered rifle also features custom NRA serialization with numbers NRA16-0001 through NRA16-1150. The Gun of the Year is limited to 1,150 units and available exclusively at Friends of NRA events. Made in the USA.

Bring a special piece of the pump-action shotgun legacy to your collection with this commemorative Model 870™ Wingmaster®. The highly polished and richly blued receiver is milled from a solid billet of steel for the ultimate in rugged dependability, and two twin-action bars provide the utmost in positive chambering and ejection. Custom-quality finish and handsome American walnut woodwork already make the Wingmaster® the most aesthetically refined member of the Remington pump-action family, and the custom engraving and 24k gold plating done by Baron Technology, Inc., on this limited edition commemorating Remington’s 200th anniversary add even more classic appeal. On the right side of the 870’s blued receiver is an oval portrait-frame of Eliphalet Remington, who, in 1840, founded the original E. Remington and Sons. Surrounding Remington’s portrait is open-vine scroll work that feathers forward to the ejection port and back to the rear pin. A duck in flight and a banner that reads: “Remington 200 Years 1816-2016” are above and below the forward scroll, respectively. The NRA’s seal is neatly tucked under the scroll work. On the receiver’s left side is more open-vine scroll in a landscape setting with two ducks in the center in various flying configurations. On the left and right sides of this scroll work are two banners, with the left’s containing the words: “Remington Arms” and the right’s: “200th Anniversary.”

Replica Antique Target Ball Set

Pay tribute to the shooting sports traditions you love with these replica antique target balls. The green, blue and amber glass balls will make a unique addition to any home or office. First used in the 1870’s by duck hunters seeking to demonstrate their shooting skills, colorful glass target balls were the precursor to the saucer-shaped clay targets, or “clay pigeons,” used by today’s target shooters. Each glass ball is mounted on an individual wooden stand made by Legacy Quest Outdoors, allowing the set to be perfectly positioned wherever you wish to display it. The set also includes a metal plate reading “Replica Antique Target Balls Introduced in the USA in the 1870’s.” Each ball and stand measures 3 5/8”L x 3 5/8”W x 4 3/8”H. Handmade by Mosser Glass in Cambridge, Ohio, exclusively for Friends of NRA.

Reproduction Wine Decanter and Glass Set

Impress your guests when you serve wine and spirits from this stunning cobalt glass decanter and glass set. Individually hand-blown with cobalt metal to create the vibrant blue color, these historical reproduction items represent a combination of colonial glass making and modern glass art. Each truly distinctive piece was crafted in historic Jamestown, Va., the site of the first successful permanent English settlement in North America. Modern artisans hand blow glass at the reconstructed Jamestown Glasshouse, located just a few yards from the site where colonists first made glassware in 1608.

The craftsmen at Jamestown Glassworks use tools and methods similar to those used more than 400 years ago, and no two pieces are the same. Sizes and shapes vary slightly, giving each piece unique characteristics and its own personality. Each piece also has a distinctive pontil mark on the bottom, the sign of hand-blown glass. These decanters feature a hand-stamped “NRA 1871” seal provided by Holly City Art Glass. Not for use with hot liquids, microwave or dishwasher. Limited to 1,130 sets and available exclusively at Friends of NRA events.

- Decanter approximately 8” tall (each unit will vary slightly in shape and size)
- Glasses approximately 4” tall (each unit will vary slightly in shape and size)

Embellished Cavalry Sword with NRA Logo

Swords were still used widely during the Civil War, when National Rifle Association founders Col. William C. Church and Gen. George Wingate were fighting for the Union. This custom cavalry sword pays homage to this unique aspect of American and weapons history and will make a striking addition to any collection. Similar to the Model 1860 Light Cavalry Saber used by the U.S. Cavalry from the Civil War until the end of the Indian Wars—and even into the Spanish-American War—this 38.25-inch long sword features a 33-inch blade that gives the impression of both power and agility. The blade is embellished with intricate scrollwork adding to its artistic and historic value. Brass wire wrap on the black leather handle complements the brass hand guard and brass trim on the gun-blued metal scabbard. Customized with the NRA logo engraved at the base of the unsharpened carbon steel blade, this exclusive piece is available only at Friends of NRA events.

Nestled in the Santa Ynez Mountains north of Santa Barbara sits a 688-acre expanse of land known as Rancho del Cielo, meaning “Ranch in the Heavens.” Ronald Reagan bought the property when he was in his second term as Governor of California, and, from that point on, he was deeply connected to the ranch and cherished its natural beauty. “There’s something about the wild scenery and serenity of the ranch and the easy gait of the horse beneath me that I find particularly relaxing. And while I loved living in the White House, I must confess that nothing in this great wide world of ours quite compares to having a home on the ranch,” President Reagan said about his Heaven’s Ranch.

One of President Reagan’s favorite activities was ranching, and he spent countless hours working alongside his ranch hands to cultivate the land into what visitors see today. Reagan’s love of horses prompted him to clear over two miles of riding trails so he and Nancy could ride their horses together. He built much of the ranch home including the stone patio, front porch room and laid the linoleum floors seen throughout the house, and he dug out Lake Lucky that was home to the canoe, “Tru Luv,” President Reagan gave Nancy on their 25th wedding anniversary.

During the 1980s the Reagan Ranch transformed into the West Coast headquarters of the presidency and became known as the “Western White House.” As the nation’s leader, Ronald Reagan spent a full year’s time at the ranch where he not only vacationed but also performed his presidential duties. President Reagan signed influential legislation at the ranch home, he hosted powerful world leaders and conducted interviews with the media while touring the Psalm 121 Overlook, Freedom Lake, Dos Vistas and his favorite places around the ranch.

Although the Reagan Ranch was a place where momentous decisions were made, the moments of peaceful tranquility meant the most to President Reagan and his family. The sandstone soil from Rancho del Cielo featured in this commemorative art piece represents a special bond President Reagan shared with his beloved ranch, country and God. His soul will forever be imprinted in the land he so dearly treasured, and his legacy will endure for generations to come.

Framed in 22.5”W x 16.25”H espresso walnut and double matted in natural cream with rich umber accents, a sample of the sandstone soil accompanies a commemorative coin from Ouellette Industries, Inc., that bears the Presidential Seal in beautiful die-cast color, paying tribute to The Great Communicator and the land he cherished. A photo of President Reagan on horseback at his ranch and a historical note complete this set that celebrates a remarkable NRA Life member who was commended by NRA for his steadfast defense of the right to keep and bear arms and awarded NRA’s highest recognition, Honorary Life member, in 1983. Made exclusively for Friends of NRA. Printed and framed by Made in USA Framing, LLC.
Second Amendment Framed Art

Passed by Congress on September 25, 1789, and ratified December 15, 1791, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution guarantee essential rights and civil liberties to all Americans. National Rifle Association supporters and shooting sports enthusiasts recognize that the Second Amendment contained in that Bill of Rights is a unique and fundamental aspect of American liberty and heritage. Show your support for the essential freedom it protects with this exclusive cast marble plaque. Reinforcing the importance of an enduring right to bear arms, a strong and durable mixture of resin and marble has been used to create this piece of truly meaningful art.

With its first three words, “We the People,” the preamble to the Constitution emphasizes that the nation is to be ruled by the people. Displayed in their iconic calligraphic font, these celebrated words grab the attention of any viewer and introduce the “Amendment II” presented below. The text of the Second Amendment appears in flowing script: “A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.”

With its simple elegance and powerful message, this classically styled plaque is sure to become a cherished family possession, sharing the significance of constitutional democracy and firearms freedoms with generations to come. Completed with a 15.5”W x 19.5”H shadowbox frame in dark mahogany finish with a sawtooth hanger on back. Limited to 1,130 units and made in the USA by John Wills Studios, Inc., of Virginia exclusively for Friends of NRA.
Dirty Harry Model 29 Framed Casing Set

While the movie Dirty Harry featured many famous actors, the true star of the film was the Smith & Wesson Model 29 that served as Harry Callahan’s justice-wielding machine. Featured in Dirty Harry in 1971 and Magnum Force in 1973, Callahan’s Model 29 was there at his side as he protected victims of violent crime and fought fugitives with deadly force. As Callahan challenged, “Go ahead, make my day” and “You’ve got to ask yourself one question: ‘Do I feel lucky?’ Well, do you, punk?”, the Model 29 answered. No criminal in the movies could escape the ultimate doom of the Model 29 thanks to its consistent performance and pure firing power.

Smith & Wesson began producing the N-frame revolver in .44 Magnum in 1955, and in 1957 it was given the Model 29 designation when the factory imposed a new rule requiring all revolvers to display their model numbers on the yoke. The firearm became known as the most powerful handgun in the world, and, since that moment in history, public authority figures and citizens alike have chosen the Model 29 as their sidearm. However, it wasn’t until the Dirty Harry movies that the firearm gained legendary popularity and sales soared.

The Dirty Harry (1971) Smith & Wesson Model 29 has a 6.5 inch barrel length with a six round capacity, features a red ramp front sight, adjustable rear sight and blue finish with customized Smith & Wesson Golcona Aves grip panels. The barrel is screwed in and secured by a pin driven through the frame and a notch in the barrel, also known as “pinned,” and the rear of the bored cylinder holes are countersunk so when loaded the cartridge rims are fully enclosed by the cylinder, known as “recessed.” Crush-fit barrels replaced the pinned barrels and recessed cylinders in 1982, and other changes have been made to the Model 29 throughout the years, but this particular model is the most iconic and recognizable today.

Now the firearm is on loan to the National Firearms Museum in Fairfax, Va., from John Milius, the writer of Dirty Harry and Magnum Force. Warner Brothers presented the firearm to Milius for his essential role and influence in the two films, which is cited on the inlet silver plate of the revolver’s left grip. On February 18 and 19, 2014, the Model 29 was fired by NRA Headquarters Staff, including General Operations Executive Director Kyle Weaver, to create this custom collector’s set. The set contains a .44 MAG bullet and casing accompanied by a classic image portrayal of Harry Callahan holding the Model 29 along with a historical note. Printed and framed by Made in USA Framing, LLC, the display features a 20”H x 13”W distressed gray-brown frame with triple matting in white with cinder gray accents. Only 1,130 pieces were produced exclusively for Friends of NRA to recognize the impact of the Model 29 on firearms history.

Established in 1990, The NRA Foundation, Inc. (“NRA Foundation”) is a 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt organization that raises tax-deductible contributions in support of a wide range of firearm-related public interest activities of the National Rifle Association of America and other organizations that defend and foster the Second Amendment rights of all law-abiding Americans. These activities are designed to promote firearms and hunting safety, to enhance marksmanship skills of those participating in the shooting sports, and to educate the general public about firearms in their historic, technological and artistic context. Funds granted by The NRA Foundation benefit a variety of constituencies throughout the United States including children, youth, and women, individuals with physical disabilities, gun collectors, law enforcement officers, hunters and competitive shooters.

The Friends of NRA fundraising program was established in October 1992 to raise funds in support of this mission. True to the tradition of the original town meetings, and organized by community volunteers from every walk of life, Friends of NRA events provide participants an opportunity to support the charitable goals of The NRA Foundation and enjoy the camaraderie of other law-abiding gun owners.
